

Justice Teaching Institute Commonwealth Supreme Court

The Justice Teaching Institute (“JTI”) is an intensive education program for primary and secondary school teachers. Sponsored by the Commonwealth Supreme Court and funded by a grant from the CNMI Council for the Humanities, the JTI’s primary purpose is to assist our educators in fostering a greater understanding of the law, courts, and justice system among their students.

The three-day program varies from year to year but has included mock trial and moot court exercises, panel discussions, and lectures on such topics as the adversarial system, the history and development of the Commonwealth courts, juvenile justice, and law-related resources. The faculty has been comprised of justices, judges, and other respected professionals, primarily drawn from the legal and law enforcement communities.

Participants are awarded certificates upon successful completion of the program, and thereafter are recognized as JTI Fellows. Since JTI’s inception in July of 2001, the following teachers from Saipan, Tinian, and Rota have earned this distinction:
